DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by EP 0 629 004 A1.

This reference clearly teaches applicant's claimed method in Example 1 at p. 7.

With specific respect to claim 2, it is the examiner's position that, since this reference does not disclose thermal damage to the EVA and since the finished composite functions as intended, it is an inherent feature of the invention of this reference that the temperature at which the EVA is applied does not cause thermal damage to the EVA.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 0 629 004 A1.

This reference discloses an overall composite temperature of 150°C during application of the EVA. This is outside the range of from 20°C to 120°C claimed by applicant. Generally, differences in temperature will not support the patentability of subject matter encompassed by the prior art unless there is evidence indicating such temperature is critical (see MPEP § 2144.05 II A). “[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation.” In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955). Consequently, absent evidence of unexpected results demonstrating the criticality of the claimed temperature range, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to optimize the process temperature in the method of this reference by routine experimentation.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Polyvinyl fluoride is known as a weather-resistant top-layer material in photovoltaic cells (see, for example, US 4,419,531 A). Nevertheless, EP 0 629 04 A1 teaches away from the use of fluorinated resins exclusively in favor of trifluorochloroethylene-vinyl copolymer (3:27-35 and 6:25-7:6). Consequently, the prior art neither teaches nor suggests a polyvinyl fluoride as the fluoropolymer. Lastly, it is noted that polycarbonate is a resin derived from bisphenol A (see entry for "polycarbonate" in Hawley's Condensed Chemical Dictionary, attached).
